THE FIRE. Great excitement was occasioned yesterday ust at noon by the prolonged ringing of the alarm bell. At first no one seemed to heed its call, but as peal after peal rang out more rapidly, everyone began quickening their pace. No one knew where the fire was, or what was on fire. From the principal streets no smoke could be seen, and many supposed it was a false alarm. It proved to be the large stack of baled hay lying on the wharf, quite near the Government store houses.

FROM ALBANY.

From Our Special Correspondent. NEW-YORK CENTRAL.

The bill last introduced in relation to Central Railroad fares was expected to come up before the Senate last evening, it having been "moved forward" by Senator Christie; but the Committee of the Whole precedence over it, and it was not reached. No opportunity has offered to go into Committee of the Whole upon it to-day, but a resolution was carried this morning making it the special order for Tuesday marning next, immediately after the reading of the journal. While this vote—like the similar one, which was carried to make the former Central bill a special order—affords no indication of strength sufficient to give assurances of its passage, it cannot be dealed that its friends for some reason not known to the public feel a good deal encouraged and claim to have secured the four additional votes necessary to pass it. It is be like the frame of the amendment by substituting substantially the corporators named in the Broadway Parallel bill.

Mr. VAN BUREN favored this. It was preferable to make the former Central bill a special order—affords no indication of strength sufficient to give assurances of its passage, it cannot be dealed that its friends for some reason not known to the public feel a good deal encouraged and claim to have secured the four additional votes necessary to pass it. It is be vas occupied all the evening with other bills having four additional votes necessary to pass it. It is believed that if the former bill had been properly engineered on the floor, and especially if amendments had been introduced limiting the increased fare to two and a half cents, it might have passed the Senate. The mistakes then committed will be carefully avoided, and the fare is by the present bill limited to the maximum of ten and a half cents. The dividends are also to be limited; so far it possesses manifest advantages over its predecessor.

The Broadway and Cross-town bills will be taken up immediately after the Central passes, should it indeed be fortunate enough to pass.

EVENING SESSION.

The House resumed consideration of the New-York and Brooklyn Ferry Railroad bill. The Chair decided the question first to be taken on the amendment to sell the franchise to the highest bidder.

Mr. Shipard and the los of selling a railroad franches the city of New-York. Those roads were needed to accommodate the masses. Put down the fare and it would be much better for the people than to sell the franchises.

J. L. Smith favored the amendment.

Providing for the incorporation of clubs for social and recreative purposes.

In relation to actions and proceedings in bond of the Commissioners of Pilots.

To increase fures on the street railroads in Buffale.

The Annual Supply bill.

The New-York and Brooklyn Railroad Ferry biff.

Mr. Huss moved to recommit the bill to amend the charter of Newburgh, with instructions to strike out the bill was lost.

Mr. Stewalt moved to lay the order of third railroading bills on the table, for the purpose of going into Committee of the Whole on the New-York and Brooklyn Ferry Railroad Bill.

Mr. Glerason naked that the question be taken on the motion to suspend. Carried, 89 to 32.

Mr. Gleason asked that the question be taken on the motion to suspend. Carried, 80 to 32.

The motion to go into Committee of the Whole on the bill was then adopted—83 to 37.

Mr. Weke moved to amend by striking out the names of the corporators and providing for advertising the franchise for sale to the highest bidder by the city athorities. He said that these franchises had been taken from the city because the authorities were giving those away, and now for years past the Legislature had been away, and now for years past the Legislature had been enit of these great franchises that the money might go into the city treasury. Should the amendment be adopted he would vote for all fair hills for railroads in New-York.

Mr. Stream offered to amend the amendment by substituting substantially the corporators named in the franchises.

J. L. PARKER said it was true that this franchise be-franchises.

J. L. PARKER said it was true that this franchise belonged to the State, and so did every franchise granted, by this Legislature, even to the incorporation of a Savings Bank. Why not make an auction shop of the State, and sell out all the franchises?

Mr. BRANDEETH favored the amendment. There were seventy names in the bill, and each name represented a member of this House.

Mr. Wood denied that the city or State owned any franchise in the streets of New-York. The attempt to defeat this bill originates in a desire to protect the monopoles already existing. The object of the bill was to refleve Broadway, to give the people an opportunity to ride up and down the city. If there were 70 names in the bill, he had been credibly informed that rival interests had sent up here $50,000 to defeat it.

Mr. VAN BUREN said no argument had been advanced against the bill. No one protended that it was not a public necessity. As one of the supporters of the bill, he challenged any man to point out a name in which be was interested. He thought the deys of mirsoles had returned when the gentleman from Westchester (Brand-returned when the gentleman from Westchester (Brand-returned when the gentleman from Westchester (Brand-returned when the gentleman from Westchester (Brand-was interested. He though the days of miracies has returned when the gentle man from Westchester (Brand-Also rett) assumed to be a champion of virtue. He was fa favor of New-York railroads under proper restrictions.

In the last the last and the last and the last and many member was interested in the bill and withdrew any imputation of that character.

Mr. Repossoros opposed the bill.

Mr. Weed's amendment was lost.

Mr. Kreponators opposed the bill.
Mr. Wfep's amendment was lost.
Mr. Strwart's amendment was adopted.
Mr. Mathews moved that each corporator make affidavit before the County Clerk of New-York that he is the identical person named, stating his resistence and the number of the street. Lost.
Mr. Van Bunen moved to amend, so that when the net earnings of the road shall exceed 15 per cent on the capital stock, the fore shall be reduced to five cents; and thereafter, when the net carnings reach the same and thereafter, when the net carnings reach the same amount, the fare shall be reduced to three cents. Mr. Weed moved to amend by fixing the capital Mr. When moved to amend by fixing the capital stock at the amount actually expended by the corporation. Lost.

Mr. Van Burner's amendment was adopted.

Mr. Burner's amendment was adopted.

The bill was then ordered to the third reading. 72

Mr. McConverse moved to reconsider the vote just taken. Lost. Adjourned.
